

MEMBER MEN WILL VOTE FOR BRYAN

Producers of Southern Pine Are Not Benefitted by the Small Tariff on Lumber and Effective Refutation of the Argument of the Republicans by One of North Carolina's Foremost Lumbermen. "The Truth is, the South's Two Chief Products, Cotton and Lumber, Cannot Be Protected by the Tariff, Since We Produce a Surplus of the Only Foreign Lumber That Can Compete with Us in This Territory is Canada. Canada Lumber That Comes in Competition with Our Pine." The Protected Trusts Add Immensely to the Cost of Producing Lumber. The Democrats Will Relieve Them of This Burden, While the Tariff on Lumber Will Be Taken Off by Either Party That Wins.

...of lumber is one of the most important industries in the South. The almost complete monopoly of this business for the past few months has contributed to the feeling of depression which has been felt since the Roosevelt election. The manufacturers of the lumber business in the South and one of the reasons for this is the tariff on lumber. The tariff on lumber is one of the most important items on the Democratic party. It is the universal demand of the people of the South for relief from the tariff on lumber. The tariff on lumber is one of the most important items on the Democratic party. It is the universal demand of the people of the South for relief from the tariff on lumber.

...of North Carolina or Southern pine is its product in active competition with every other manufacturer, and it is in this condition which has forced the price of lumber down, and which has caused it to be forced down if the tariff on lumber had been ten instead of two dollars per thousand. The great scare-crow held up to the Southern lumberman is the competition with Canadian lumber. It has often been stated that our Southern lumber does not compete with the lumber furnished by Canada and as a substantial proof of that fact, we actually exported to Canada in the last year, 1907, lumber to the value of $4,902,910.

Exports Argue Tariff no Benefit. It is a well known principle of trade that any article of commerce that is exported to a considerable extent cannot be benefited in the home market by a protective tariff, unless the natural laws of trade are interfered with in some artificial way, as, for instance, when the home market is controlled by a trust, which is not now and never has been true of the lumber business. The tariff on lumber that water will seek its level that no producer will ship his product to the foreign market as long as the home market is protected in any way, and hence the export of any article in considerable quantity is sufficient proof that the tariff is not a benefit. According to the government reports lumber was exported from this country last year to the value of $29,861,252.

The following article, written by a practical lumberman, Mr. Charles Ross, of the Harnett county, N. C. Lumber Co., in addition to being a very instructive discussion of the question, shows that the tariff is not a benefit. The tariff on lumber is one of the most important items on the Democratic party. It is the universal demand of the people of the South for relief from the tariff on lumber.

Lumberman's Views on the Tariff. "To Lumbermen—The protective tariff is capable of some exceedingly ingenious arguments. One of the latest is an appeal to Southern Lumbermen to support the tariff on lumber. The tariff on lumber is one of the most important items on the Democratic party. It is the universal demand of the people of the South for relief from the tariff on lumber.

...of the tariff on lumber is one of the most important items on the Democratic party. It is the universal demand of the people of the South for relief from the tariff on lumber. The tariff on lumber is one of the most important items on the Democratic party. It is the universal demand of the people of the South for relief from the tariff on lumber.

...of the tariff on lumber is one of the most important items on the Democratic party. It is the universal demand of the people of the South for relief from the tariff on lumber. The tariff on lumber is one of the most important items on the Democratic party. It is the universal demand of the people of the South for relief from the tariff on lumber.

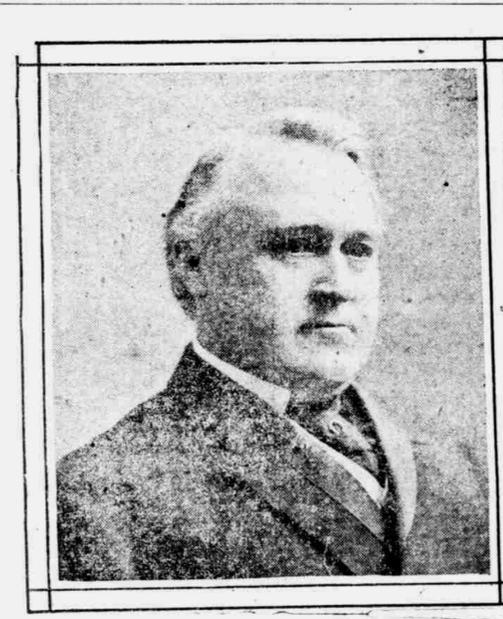

HON. F. M. SIMMONS.

Representatives of the State in the United States Senate, who in a comparatively short term of service have taken positions of leadership in the higher branch of the national assembly.

They have membership on the most important committees of the Senate, have been successful beyond any of their predecessors in securing appropriations to be expended in the State.

The term of Senator Overman expires with the present Congress, and the conspicuously high position which he has taken during his first term has insured his re-election by the next General Assembly without opposition inside of his party.

HON. LEE S. OVERMAN.

Representatives of the State in the United States Senate, who in a comparatively short term of service have taken positions of leadership in the higher branch of the national assembly.

They have membership on the most important committees of the Senate, have been successful beyond any of their predecessors in securing appropriations to be expended in the State.

The term of Senator Overman expires with the present Congress, and the conspicuously high position which he has taken during his first term has insured his re-election by the next General Assembly without opposition inside of his party.

12 REPUBLICAN HANDICAPS

1. The resentment of the people to Roosevelt's dictation of Taft's nomination by Federal office-holders.
2. The disaffection of the negro vote all over the country.
3. The disaffection of union and unorganized labor.
4. Millions of men out of employment.
5. Hard times following a panic and the empty dinner-pail.
6. A united Democracy.
7. The Democratic demand for a revision downward of the tariff.
8. The tendency to centralization by the Republican leaders.
9. The disorganized condition of the Republican party, as witnessed in the States of Ohio, New York, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana.
10. The reckless extravagance of the Republican Congress.
11. The law preventing the Republicans from getting money from corporations to buy elections.
12. Bryan, Bryan, Bryan.

Mr. D. A. Tompkins, of Charlotte, Authority on Finance, Favours Bryan's Plan of securing Bank Deposits.

Charlotte Observer, August 30, 1909. Mr. D. A. Tompkins was asked yesterday what he thought of the plan proposed by Mr. W. J. Bryan on the question of guaranteed bank deposits and what he thought of the general proposition itself. He said: "Mr. Bryan's speech upon the subject of guaranteed bank deposits appears to be as well thought out as any gentleman ever made at the same time one of the best expositions of the subject that has yet been offered by anybody. The Republican party has so far been very unfortunate in its handling of the currency question, although Mr. Charles Fowler, a Republican, worked a most satisfactory currency bill. The Republican party under Mr. Aldrich defeated it and substituted something which was much worse than nothing. Everybody who ever carries a bank account, and particularly every banker, ought to read Mr. Bryan's speech."

Prohibition Not a Party Question. Charleston Express.

Occasionally we hear of a man who swears that he will never vote the Democratic ticket again because the Democratic party favored prohibition on the State. When a man talks like that it shows that he is not at all a Democrat. Prohibition is a Democratic issue, in which were thirty-nine Republican members, did pass a bill allowing the people of the State to vote on the question of prohibition. Out of the thirty-nine Republican members, thirty-seven voted for the bill. In the campaign for prohibition we saw prominent Republicans and prominent Democrats fighting for it, and prominent Democrats fighting against it. It was not any one party that gave us prohibition, but the people of all parties. The strongest opponents of prohibition were that sturdy Democrat and gallant Confederate veteran, Cyrus H. Watson, of Wilkes, and in a speech a few days ago in his home town he said that there was nothing to cause a man who was a Democrat to vote against prohibition. He said: "And that is nothing."

All the powers of the Democratic State administration are now engaged in an effort to correct the abuses—the outrageous abuse—in interstate freight rates which gives to cities of Virginia and South Carolina cities that in all North Carolina it is impossible for any wholesale house to do much more than a local business. An abuse which has built up big cities on each side of us, when under fair conditions of freight rates North Carolina pluck and energy would outstrip them all. The Republicans have nominated for Governor "the hands man" of the Southern Railway, Mr. Cox, who went off to Washington City for them and testified under oath that there were no abuses or discriminations in freight rates, or even any complaints as to such, worthy of attention.

Cotton is worth on the New York market now about 14 per cent more than the average New York price during Cleveland's administration. With living expenses increased 49 per cent in the last twelve years, it is apparent that a pound of cotton will buy less to-day than at any other period in the history of cotton production.

The country is still suffering from a panic that would never have occurred if there had been guarantee of bank deposits. In his speech at New Bern, N. C., the Hon. John Salter Williams demonstrated conclusively that whatever else might be said about the panic it was as clear as the sun that it was caused by the withdrawal of hundreds of millions of dollars from the banks and trust companies. In fact when the Knickerbocker Trust Company failed, just at the time of stress when it was most sorely needed. The remedy which the Republican Congress furnished for this situation, said Mr. Williams, was enough "to make all the immortal gods on Mount Olympus laugh, and all the little fishes to smile." Instead of giving some measure of additional protection or security to depositors they passed a law, the Aldrich-Vreeland bill, which actually further undermined the security of depositors by authorizing banks to use certain classes of their securities, which are a source of a curdy to depositors, as the basis of temporary inflation of the currency and giving to the new issue a prior lien over the depositors on the securities. With great force he matched against this makeshift the Democratic plan of requiring the banks to guarantee the security of their deposits by the deposit of the money of the country performing regularly its mission in perfect confidence of security.

KITCHIN AND BRYAN

A Splendid Tribute to These Standard-Bearers of Democracy by Hon. F. M. Simmons

Hon. F. M. Simmons, our senior Senator, whose master hand guided the hosts of Democracy in several of its most trying and most brilliant successful battles, is actively engaged in the campaign, and his prepared speech, which is decidedly one of the best contributions to the Liberty of the campaign, is being extensively circulated by the State committees.

It is well known in North Carolina that I did not support the candidacy of Mr. Kitchen for Governor. I advocated for nomination for that office another great North Carolinian. In this I was exercising the inalienable right of Democrats in all party contests over nominations. There was nothing in my support of Mr. Craig's candidacy which interfered in the slightest with my giving Mr. Kitchen my cordial support. I was in favor of Mr. Craig until the majority of my party decided in favor of Mr. Kitchen. I am not a member of the Kitchen Club, but from the minute Mr. Kitchen's nomination was announced I have been as earnest—as it was my duty to be—as it is the duty of every Craig man to be—a supporter of Mr. Kitchen's election. I was up to that minute of Mr. Kitchen's nomination. Mr. Kitchen is entitled to my support. He is entitled to the support of every

If a Republican Legislature should be elected this year that high type of statesman and Senator, Lee S. Overman, would be succeeded in the Senate by Spencer B. Adams, the man who mixed the vilest and dirtiest kind of partisan politics with his instructions of the law from the bench, and who pointed out to a Columbus County grand jury elements of "bravery" in rapists. It required "courage," he told them. For making that charge he was lashed from the bench by the press of the State. His continuation at the head of the Republican party in this State, and his domination of it, is the severest indictment that could be brought against the party, and is sufficient reason, if there were not a hundred others, why it does not deserve support, or even respect.

Standing as he does, the foremost prize to be won in the world, the greatest orator that has appeared since the days of Demosthenes, the man who has made the name of Democracy a household word in every man's mouth, and who has made the name of Democracy a household word in every man's mouth, and who has made the name of Democracy a household word in every man's mouth.

HIT ONE TIME TOO MANY.

Republican Prosperity (?), Properly spelled P-A-N-I-C, is a curse to the People. WE WANT A CHANGE!